Universal Health Care Group's Corporate Open House Showcased Expansion

Company anticipates significant growth in 2009 and beyond

St. Petersburg, Florida, April 12, 2009 – Universal Health Care Group (“Universal”) celebrated its recent expansion with an Open House on Saturday, April 11, featuring a tour of the corporate offices and an overview of strategic business initiatives. A dinner followed the event. Attendees included local political and business leaders, physicians who serve their members, shareholders and employees and their families. Governor Charlie Crist and his wife, Carole Crist; former Governor Bob Martinez and his wife, Mary Jane Martinez; and former Ambassador Mel Sembler and his wife, Betty Sembler, were among those that attended Saturday’s events.

At the dinner, Chairman and CEO Dr. Akshay Desai commented, “Our mission is a very broad and compelling one -- to provide access to essential health care services so Americans can lead healthy, fulfilling and meaningful lives. We are proud to have our headquarters in St. Petersburg. This expansion will allow us to better serve our customers and continue to recruit and retain the most competent and professional staff in our industry.”

“An equal mission -- equal in import and immediacy -- is to achieve healthcare for all by eliminating disparities among the minority communities, especially among African-Americans, Hispanic-Americans and low-income whites. I never cease to be inspired and guided by President Kennedy who said: ‘If a free society cannot secure the many that are poor, it cannot save the few who are rich.’ The challenge for us is to accomplish this through compassion, capitalism and the protestant ethic. The success of enterprises like ours will determine if America continues to progress by reinventing itself according to the times and tasks at hand, or lapse into nostalgia for forgotten, false and failed utopias.”

The Company anticipates recruiting 150 employees from the local area for a wide range of positions during the next 12 months, bringing the employee base to over 400. Projecting double-digit growth, the Company will be adding 11,000 SF to its existing 31,000 SF corporate offices.
